- All candidates' CVs are within the desired qualifications required by the University of Roehampton and all meet the University's expectations. All candidates passed the screening process and were asked to deliver a mock lecture in order to demonstrate their pedagogical methods.

Our lecturers' professional experience is a much more valuable asset for this programme, as an MBA degree aims to provide a hands-on experience of real-world business problems. Engaging in the workforce helps our lecturers to apply theoretical knowledge in real-world settings, fostering the development of critical problem-solving abilities and professional competencies that are highly valued by the University of Roehampton and the students. This enables our staff to provide a better understanding of industry-specific challenges and trends, positioning students for leadership roles and career stability more rapidly than the often-narrow focus of academic research.

Proof of the ERGANI Database can be found in Annex A.

7. We have already forwarded your advice to the University of Roehampton and the answer was that they will try to communicate this to the decision-making department. However, they highlighted the fact that the reason for this mismatch is that they want to use the on-campus resources as a pilot and fix any problems that may arise before extending the material to the partners.
